NABO FOKU MUSIKALA

We all know that Euskara is the language of the people from Euskal Herria. And that this language translated to English is Basque, this week let's take a look at the root and the suffixes that allow it to adapt.

EuskaDI vs EuskAL Herria

Euskadi is the Basque name used for the Basque Autonomous Community (Comunidad Autónoma Vasca - in Spain), whereas the whole of the Basque lands in France and Spain are referred to as Euskal Herria (which means 'Basque Country').

EuskaRA

the language of the region

fransesa - French gaztelania - Spanish
ingelesa - English

EuskarAZ

the suffix -z is widely used to express ideas of instrument or means with which an action is carried out

autoz - by car
internez - via internet ingelesez - through/in English

EuskalDUN = Euskara duena

-DUN used to express what is indicated by the base of the word, in this case a person that has (speaks) euskara

Erdaldun - a person that doesn't know euskara
